Happy Father's Day Card... by Keri Lee Sereika

Taking time to recognize all the wonderful fathers out there is important & not just once a year but the entire year through....For this card I simply wanted to design something that my husband would love. I happen to love the colors Kraft, Red & Blue together...no matter what the shades! For the sentiment I had the notion to use a chipboard letter from Want2Scrap in place of the printed "F" but still use the fun swirls that come with that uppercase letter. To achieve this I opened a file in Photoshop, created a total of three layers, one for each word I was planning on using. I made the word "Father's" larger than both of the other words. I then made sure that the "F" even larger than the rest of the word. Finally I created another layer & using the rectangular selector tool I created a selection over top of the "F" and filled it with white but kept the swirls that were coming off.

My last step was to arrange the layers so that the sentiment was placed together so that there would be room to add the chipboard "F" as I had planned. I then printed the sentiment and die cut around it using Spellbinders Labels Four. To finish off my sentiment panel I simply inked the chipboard "F", applied glue to the entire surface and applied red glitter to really give it "POP!". After that it was simply a matter of putting the card all together as you see here. I again used the Lumiere 3-D to adhere the buttons and fill the "naked" button holes.... just like I did on my scrapbook layout earlier this month. What a fun texture the strips of buttons add beneath the main focal image, don't you think? Enjoy!

Happy Scrapping!
